October is often seen as a month filled with spookiness and mystique, especially with the approach of Halloween. As ghosts, goblins, and eerie decorations come to life, there's an undeniable excitement in the air. According to USA Today, adults actually spend more on themselves to celebrate Halloween than on any other holiday throughout the year. This trend reveals how eager both kids and adults are to immerse themselves in the festivities, whether it's accompanying children while trick-or-treating or attending themed parties filled with costumes and treats.

However, amidst the fun, there is a group that experiences a different kind of fright. Many homeowners and homebuyers find themselves genuinely scared about the complexities of navigating the real estate market. The fear of how to transition from their current homes to new ones can be daunting, making the process feel like a scary trick rather than a treat. While Halloween brings playful scares, the challenges of buying or selling one's home can create a truly frightful sense of anxiety.

The Almaro Team @ Your Home Sold Guaranteed Realty has resources and support systems available to help navigate the real estate landscape. With our guidance, homeowners and homebuyers can find strategies to minimize their stress and make informed decisions. As they tackle these daunting tasks, they can also find ways to celebrate the season and embrace the joy that October brings.

B Walker Ranch is on target to become a flagship property with a model program that can be duplicated in communities everywhere.

A Real Estate Team that Gives Back!

BWR, a 10.63-acre parcel, is developing a variety of programs for adults with autism designed to foster self-advocacy by recognizing their individual needs and harvesting a sense of purpose within a farm environment. When our children graduate from high school at 18 they have an opportunity to go onto the next stage of their lives. There are few next steps for those children with autism. The US has an ongoing crisis as individuals age-out of existing programs at 22, while still needing structured environments in their daily lives.

Why I Give to
B Walker Ranch:

I was born and raised in Mexico City. My family moved to Los Angeles, California when I was fourteen. After obtaining my BS Degree in Accounting in 1981 from USC, I became a US Citizen.

I am passionate about helping others. When I became aware of the amazing work my colleagues at B Walker Ranch are doing to support children and young adults with autism, I felt compelled to help. I love contributing a portion of my income in addition to volunteering my time and energy, to furthering the work and awareness of B Walker Ranch.

'Building up' my community is very important to me. Using my business to bring together clients, a worthy cause and an even stronger sense of community, really inspires me to give it my all.

There is so much joy in giving. While family and daily work occupy much of my time and resources, I always remember to "pay it forward" and do my best to make the world a better place. I personally know the founders of B Walker Ranch and share their sense of commitment and purpose around improving the lives of those in our community who need help. Both our and your sponsorships and donations can make a difference.

I hope you will join me in supporting B Walker Ranch, by referring people ready to make a move either buying or selling. Simply go to: www.ReferralsHelpAutism.com and together, we can make a BIGGER difference!

B Walker Ranch

Vision

B Walker Ranch was born when Jeanine Stanley, mother of a son with autism, began working as the Parent Representative for the Martinez School District.

Besides sitting on the Community Advisory Council for Contra Costa County, Jeanine became painfully aware of the sheer number of autistic children coming through the system with little meaningful programming available when they turned 22 years of age. She joined forces with Pamela Hale Mitchell to create the B Walker Ranch, a Day Program for adults with autism. It is their mission to create a ranch that will become a model program to be replicated in other communities, meeting the growing number of people with autism.

The daily tasks of running a ranch offers opportunities for meaningful work and a sense of belonging. Our ranchers will be fully immersed in the responsibilities of running a ranch; learning to care for animals, growing product from seed to harvest, and understanding the process.

The activities become the teaching tool and offer therapeutic benefits. Natural consequences will emerge and the next questions will begin to surface. The ranchers' interest will come forth as they are challenged physically and intellectually through various programs such as Horticulture, Cooking /Nutrition, Animal Therapy, Occupational and Art Therapies. Our trained staff will be sensitive to the capabilities and accomplishments of each rancher to foster independence.

We are a green model ranch. Energy saving structures, nontoxic materials and organic farming practices support individuals with autism, who are known to be especially sensitive to chemicals and other toxicities. We offer an environment free from these substances where healthy lifestyles will be encouraged. Whether it is gathering eggs or shoveling manure, our ranchers will feel connected to their toxic-free environment and learn to care for it as their own.

B Walker Ranch is a “model” program that will be on the forefront of teaching others how to take this programming into their communities. As well, we will be a bridge to our community where volunteer opportunities will be expanded. Local colleges will be partnered, as we provide the perfect “training ground” for learning and teaching. Community collaboration is vital as we develop relationships that further the understanding and necessity of providing quality Day programming to individuals who have autism.
