is out to make a profound difference for families whose lives have been touched by autism

Yes, the Doctor of Love is in... in all of us. Our lived experience teaches us that Love truly is a Many Splendored Thing. Each love has its unique aspects. When my husband and I were planning our Wedding, our event planner suggested we reveal to all in attendance the words that best convey our LOVE for each other.

My favorite Love Description is from 1 Corinthians 13: Love is patient, love is kind. It does not envy, it does not boast, it is not proud. It is not rude, it is not self-seeking, it is not easily angered, it keeps no record of wrongs. Love does not delight in evil but rejoices with the truth. It always protects, always trusts, always hopes, and always perseveres.

Regardless of your 'religious persuasion', you may agree that the above IS a great description of Love. I am talking Love because February is widely celebrated as the Month of Love, centered on Valentine's Day.

I could go on, with all kinds of examples like "Love Your Neighbor as Thyself", "Love doing business with you", "Love your referrals", etc. The fact is, we love helping people find their next homes to love, whether it's their 1st or 5th purchase or sale. And our clients say we are great at it!

The first step in helping people find their next home to love, is finding the best Realtor to help make it happen. That's where "Love your Referrals" comes in. Know that my team and I are eager to help anyone you know who wants to make a move. In fact, we are willing to make an offer they will surely love. This Valentine's month we are offering homeowners who wish to make a move a very special gift

OUR GUARANTEE to you, your friends, and family—

For the month of February, anyone you refer to me who is considering making a move, I will guarantee in writing that their home will sell or we will buy it at a price acceptable to them. We just need to agree on the price and possession date with the seller. This is where you can help!

There is some risk on my part in making such an incredible guarantee, but we are selling just about every home we list for market value, sometimes more, so there is no reason for any homeowner to fret about selling right now.

HAVING PEACE OF MIND AND GETTING TOP DOLLAR FOR YOUR HOME IS WHERE EXPERIENCE COUNTS!

As a result of working with over 5,000 families during my 20+ year career and through three documented recessions, we have developed a special market-proof program to quickly get an acceptable cash offer on any home at market value.

IF YOU OR A FRIEND ARE THINKING ABOUT SELLING, MAKE SURE TO CHOOSE A REAL ESTATE TEAM YOU CAN TRUST!

A real estate team with experience, proven results and a give-back philosophy!

This is where you come in... If you or anyone you know is considering making a move, we would like to offer them a FREE No-Obligation-to-Sell Consultation to discuss just how they can make their move, get what they want and do it with the least amount of hassle.

Just like we are thankful for you and your business, I am confident your referrals will be thanking you for steering them in the right direction to getting their home sold!!!

RANCH

B Walker Ranch is on target to become a flagship property with a model program that can be duplicated in communities everywhere.

A Real Estate Team that Gives Back!

BWR, a 10.63-acre parcel, is developing a variety of programs for adults with autism designed to foster self-advocacy by recognizing their individual needs and harvesting a sense of purpose within a farm environment. When our children graduate from high school at 18 they have an opportunity to go onto the next stage of their lives. There are few next steps for those children with autism. The US has an ongoing crisis as individuals age-out of existing programs at 22, while still needing structured environments in their daily lives.

Over the decades of helping families sell or buy the place they call home we have met some of the most wonderful, loving, caring people sharing the same Go Serve Big values we do!

I hope you and your family are well and this Valentines Season brings you much joy and happiness. Happy Valentine's Day!

Why I Give to B Walker Ranch:

I was born and raised in Mexico City. My family moved to Los Angeles, California when I was fourteen. After obtaining my BS Degree in Accounting in 1981 from USC, I became a US Citizen.

I am passionate about helping others. When I became aware of the amazing work my colleagues at B Walker Ranch are doing to support children and young adults with autism, I felt compelled to help. I love contributing a portion of my income in addition to volunteering my time and energy, to furthering the work and awareness of B Walker Ranch.

'Building up' my community is very important to me. Using my business to bring together clients, a worthy cause and an even stronger sense of community, really inspires me to give it my all.

There is so much joy in giving. While family and work occupy much of my time and resources, I keep top of mind to pay it forward by helping make the world a better place.

My team and I are committed to providing outstanding results for buyers and sellers referred to us by our past clients. I personally know the founders of B Walker Ranch and share their same sense of commitment and purpose to improving the lives of those in our community. They rely on sponsorships and personal donations.

I hope you will join me in supporting B Walker Ranch, by referring people ready to make a move – either buying or selling. Simply go to: www.ReferralsHelpAutism.com and together, we can make a BIGGER difference!

Autism – “A Mother’s Story” (Jeanine Stanley)

If moms are the heart of the family then special needs mothers have to be the enlarged heart! We take on the extra burden of raising children who require more. The colossal task of rearing special needs children is daunting, isolating, overwhelming and yet, ultimately rewarding. Without us even realizing it, the experience changes us profoundly. We don't Sweat the Small Stuff, we just try and survive it and in time learn to celebrate and embrace it.

My son's diagnosis of Autism occurred when he was three years of age. With the diagnosis went a life of dreams that I had for my only boy. I began a time of depression and grief as I ventured into this different world of Special Education.

It was nothing I knew as my two daughters had attended regular schools. I fought the “little yellow bus” with all my being, as it symbolized anything but normalcy. That moment arrived on our first day of school when that bus pulled up to the curb and my son, donning his cutest little Gap outfit, had to get on. He took that big step up, faced the bus driver and asked “Will you bring me back to this house with this mom?” and I beamed as I knew in that instant that I was “special” too.

A year prior when symptoms were just beginning, I remember justifying the different things I saw my son do. I couldn't face the possibility that something might be wrong. Is he just tuning me out because he is preoccupied? Is he relentlessly taping that hanger on the floor because he is going to be a drummer one day? Eventually he was tested and that fateful diagnosis came and my hope for a regular life with a regular boy began to slip away.

What I grieve most is the dream of raising a son who would play team sports, get a drivers license, possibly go to college, get married and eventually allow me grandchildren. I don't know to what extent these events will happen as the story is not yet over, but the reality is many of our children never get these opportunities and moms lament over these losses.

Surviving the small stuff is the order of the day. We have easily given up the notion of perfection and just pray we don't drown in another day of challenges.

There were too many shopping trips where I would reach to grab some vegetables only to find my son in an instant eating out of the bulk bins. Will the school call with a calamity? “Your son was standing too close to some girls at recess and now the parents want to talk to you.” Do our neighbors want to levy another complaint? Will the cat live through another flight from the second floor? It is all small stuff yet any one of these things can cause you severe angst and can bring the strongest of us to our knees.
